Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?

Visiting museums is the best way to know a country.

让步：There is no doubt that visiting museums is constructive for visitors to learn about a country to some extent. [解释原因] The exhibits presented in the museums help people get hold of the country' s history and culture partially. [举例] For instance, historical documents will let travelers know how the country was founded and developed; besides, paintings and sculptures displayed there would enable people to experience local art and culture.

TP: To begin with, having family meals regularly is conducive to family bonds.

解释 1: When family members spend quality time together at the table, they usually talk about their daily lives and learn more about each other.

举例 1: For example, parents and children have the opportunity to ask each other about their days during family dinners.

解释 2: What's more, family members who are eating together can better help others with their problems.

举例 2: Many parents and guardians claim that spending more meal time with their family results in children being more open about their personal lives and problems. As a result, parents are better able to offer suggestions and provide support to their children.

小结 : Overall, parents and children who spend more time having meals together learn more about give-and-take and better support one another.

TP: People are taught to cooperate well with others while participating in team sporting events. Having cooperative interactions with others is also of essential importance to one's career life. In a football team, all members share a common goal and strive to combat the opposite side. It is in the process of such an endeavor that people realize the power of unity. Although all members are playing different roles in a football match, they are embracing the same dream to win. Only when each is functioning well in their role and cooperating effectively with others can the team gain the final victory. The essence of teamwork is reflected in many sporting events. Without a doubt, experiences in sports can prepare people for their career life. Whatever the domain people will engage in, collaborative skills they gain from sporting can help remove many barriers in their career. (146 w) 因果解释

TP: People are taught to cooperate well with others while participating in team sporting events. When I was younger I played lacrosse and soccer, and I learned that a team either works together or it fails together. When people were focused on supporting each other and complimenting each other' s skills, we played exceptionally. But when egos started to rule and people became focused on how many points they scored, the team' s performance took a nosedive. Even star players cannot carry a team if no one is willing to assist them. In team sports, as in many situations in life, great things are usually only achieved when a group of people work harmoniously towards the same goal. (123 w)
